 Freedom Plains Presbyterian Church

Our Annual Picnic Meeting was a success. Great food, and many items on the mart tables. It was fun catching up with everyone. We had four very interesting show-n-tells: the how-not-to oil story, the cuckoo clock restoration display and discussion, the unique movement demo, and the charming stories of the two painted plate clocks. We were pleased that people were able take time off from their busy summers to attend. And thanks to everyone who helped out.

At our October 8 meeting, Carl Listl will be doing his new presentation on cuckoo clock repair and restoration. As I'm sure everyone knows, Carl is a widely-known and respected master in what he does. Whether it's carving new antlers for deer (as he recently did for me ... beautiful!) or restoring missing pieces from complex cuckoo clock carvings. He's the best. Topics will range from making templates or patterns of parts to be fabricated, to making numerals and clock hands from bone, and the repair of cuckoo pipes. You won't want to miss this one!

Since September is rapidly approaching, I would like to remind those of you who haven't enrolled, Wappingers Central School District continuing education offers two clock classes. The basic class covers theory and hands-on experience in repairing and restoring clocks, and is taught by our own Bill Clarke. The advanced class is a bunch of clock guys (and gals) working on their favorite project, getting advice from the teachers and each other on how to tackle any challenges at hand. This class is taught by Joe Woleader and Aubrey Kinney. If you haven't taken the classes or know someone who might like to, go to Wappingers Central School District web site, continuing education. Look for the fall offerings catalogue. Classes start in September.

Enjoy the rest of the summer as it rapidly runs down, and wind yourselves up for another great year of chapter meetings, presentations, clock classes and all of the camaraderie that goes along with it. (OK, sorry about the clock metaphors ... couldn't resist it.)

See you in October!

Jim
