Have you had those haunting questions about the relationship between timepieces and navigation, but were afraid to ask? I did. And they were finally answered by Bill Clarke at our October Meeting. Plus he took us through a brief survey of navigation from earliest methods (10,000 years ago!) to the present. Thanks again Bill!

Now, on to our annual Holiday Party on Saturday, December 16. While the winter winds are blowing outside, it's a great time to get together with our many friends who share a common passion ... finding and restoring those beautiful historical works of functional art we call clocks. And it's a good occasion to reflect on how fortunate we are to have those friends. So come and have a good time. Be sure to bring any other friends you have who might be interested in developing a new passion. All are welcome. In addition to our standard breakfast, we'll also have our sub 'n salad luncheon (only $2 extra), so bring your appetite. We will have a short annual meeting at which time we will elect officers for the following year. Be thinking about anyone you would like to nominate for any position and let me know.

Also, be thinking about a workshop demo you would like to give at our February workshop meeting. Everyone has so many great ideas and skills that they could share with us. And December is the time to be deciding about taking one of the clock classes starting in January ... or convincing a friend to do so. Bill, Mike and I will have all the information at the meeting. It's easy to sign up, and you'll learn a lot in the classes while having fun.

See you in December! Jim
